

AmeriCold Logistics Announces Expansion of Less Than Truckload Shipment Consolidation Network for Refrigerated Products

Atlanta, GA August 17, 2007 – AmeriCold Logistics recently expanded its refrigerated network with the opening of new LTL Cooler Consolidation programs that provide scheduled less-than-truckload service to more than 8,000 zip codes nationwide.

“While we’ve historically been the leader in the marketplace in providing less than truckload consolidation services on a regional and national basis, this offering positions us uniquely in this space to provide specialized cooler LTL delivery services across the country.” said Greg Bryan, Senior Vice President of AmeriCold’s Transportation Group. “We believe our new cooler programs out of Indianapolis IN, Ft. Worth TX, and York PA will effectively put us in a leadership position in the industry and provide our customers with consistent deliveries of small lot products being demanded by retailers today.”

In addition to products originating from these three sites, shipments can also be cross docked from external sites for delivery.

“These new cooler programs are ideal for food manufacturers whose products require a temp-controlled environment while in-transit but cannot be frozen without affecting product integrity,” added Bryan. “With a growing importance being placed on food safety and security through the entire cold chain, we believe the timing of this expansion in our LTL cooler capacity will be well received by customers in a variety of markets.”

“This new LTL cooler capacity is designed to accommodate the small-to-medium-size company as well as the Fortune 500 company that needs a predictable, cost-effective way to deliver less-than-truckload orders to their customers’ DC’s,” said Bryan. “This expanded cooler capacity is all driven by our desire to provide customers with more options that complement our industry-leading warehouse network.”
